Example: How interest is calculated

1. Customer deposits CAD$250,000 into the HSBC Small Business Savings Account on the November 1, 2018. For this example, there is no change in the balance during the month.
2. For the entire month, the balance falls within Tier 3, which has a total annual interest rate of 2.50%.
3. Each day of November, interest earned is calculated: (2.50% total annual interest rate / 365 days) multiplied by the daily closing balance of CAD$250,000 = CAD$17.12 of interest earned each day.
4. On November 30, the Monthly Interest Amount for November is calculated by adding up each daily interest earned (CAD$17.12 X 30 days) = CAD$513.70

Interest earned for November 2018 will be $513.70 and it will be paid to the HSBC Small Business Savings Account on December 1, 2018.

The same method of calculating interest on the daily closing balance will apply if the Customer continues to hold funds or contributes funds to their HSBC Small Business Savings Account until the end of the Offer Period.
